Farming

Farming is s a way of life. It is also a business that requires specialist expertise in a wide variety of areas. Shouldn't your accountant know that too?

The farming industry encompasses a wide range of businesses, from small, diversified livestock farms to large industrial dairy and arable businesses. Many of our agricultural advisors have farming backgrounds so we understand this and tailor our accountancy services to provide business solutions that take account of subsidy rules and practical farming.

For example, our dairy accounts now include unit cost figures to help you identify strengths and weaknesses. We also produce a series of annual profits reports to allow you to compare your performance with similar businesses and regular newsletters to keep you up-to-date on the latest farming financial knowledge.

With capital values high, you will want to ensure that capital gains tax and inheritance tax reliefs are maintained whilst minimising income taxes. We specialise in developing financial solutions to help farmers to overcome these problems.

Farming is currently undergoing significant change with changes to single payments and the probable phasing out of milk quotas. We can help you plan for diversification and expansion to help avoid any unforeseen problems.

Our team is recognised throughout the industry, contributing to journals and speaking at local and national events. To find out more about how we can help you grow your business call Rob Hitch on or complete our simple form online or over leaf.
